Cathy Covert, city manager; Dennis Stout, city attorney; Linda Nichols, and Diane Santarelli, councilmen. The poodle problem was pronounced solved, but the "irate citizen" pleaded and was pawned off on the Planning Commission.

STUDENT COUNCIL -- "Mayor" Vicki Duval called the mock council meeting to order as part of the Students Run the Government Day. Helping her are the "elected officials" Vicki Sturdivant, city clerk; Kendall Scott and Sylvia Lopez, councilmen. The council took up the issues of the day and decided to ask the regular council to allow students to serve on the city council and city commissions.

New Chaffey College president starts his assignment July 1

Chaffey College's new superintendent-president will start his job at the college July 1.

Taking over the Chaffey helm will be T. Stanley Warburton, chancellor of the eight Los Angeles Community Colleges and superintendent of the Los Angeles City Junior College District.

In response to the board of trustees' appointment, Dr. Warburton said, "I know Chaffey College favorably and well. I am looking forward to joining the Chaffey College family and being a member of its community."

He will succeed Harry D. Wiser, top administrative officer here for the past four years.

Dr. Wiser earlier resigned to accept an offer to serve as executive secretary of the Accrediting Commission for Junior Colleges at the end of this academic year. The office is an administrative arm of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

In his current post, Dr. Warburton heads a Los Angeles district comprising 95,332 students and 3,203 employes. Before assuming these duties, last July, he was for two years associate superintendent of the district's college division and for eight years ranking administrator in college and adult education.

Prior to his Los Angeles experience, Dr. Warburton worked 14 years as superintendent of the Fullerton Union High School and Junior College Districts.

With a professional background of some 37 years, Dr. Warburton was the first principal and district superintendent of Acalanes Union High School, Lafayette (Calif.).

Through the years, 1936-1940, he was initially remedial instruction supervisor and ultimately secondary curriculum coordinator in the Contra Costa County school system.

Dr. Warburton started his career with a three-year stint as an instructor at Citrus Union High School and Citrus College.

T. Stanley Warburton

His part-time teaching assignments have been at Claremont Colleges, Yale University, Arizona State Teachers College, Whittier College, Stanford, Long Beach State and USC.

Chaffey's next chief is chairman of the College Federal Council for Southern California and involved in the UCLA Advisory Council's administrative leadership program.

Within the context of the California Community Colleges, Dr. Warburton is active on state-level committees relating to finance, certification and student unrest.

He served presidential terms with the California Association of School Administrators, California Junior College Association and California Society of Secondary Education.

This seasoned educator was chairman of the California Commission on Public School Administration and secretary-treasurer of the Southern California Economic Education Council.

As a community college spokesman and representative, Dr. Warburton played a vital role in CJCA's Master Plan Study of Higher Education (1948,1955 and 1960).

A native Californian and Pomona College graduate (1932), Dr. Warburton has a Ph.D. from Yale (1955) and a M.A. from Claremont Graduate School (1933). His other studies have been at Harvard University and Claremont Colleges.

Dr. Warburton was born in San Francisco, May 30, 1910, and attended Madera Public Schools. His wife, Lina Jane, is another California native and Pomona College product.

The Warburtons have three children and 4 grandchildren.

Their married daughter and son are Mrs. Duane Walters, Glendale, and Lt. Roger S. Warburton, U. S. Naval Air Reserve, Moffett Field. He has had two duty tours in Vietnam.

The Warburtons' third child is Jane, age 14.

USD kindergarten registration dates

The Upland School District will hold kindergarten registration for the next school year on the dates of May 12, 13 and 14 during the hours of 9-12 and 1-4 each day. Registration will be held at all nine elementary schools.

Children who will be five years of age on or before December 2, 1970, will be eligible for kindergarten on September 14, 1970. Proof of age is a prerequisite for kindergarten registration. Such proof should be in the form of a birth certificate or baptismal certificate.

It is also necessary that verification that the child has received at least one dose of polio vaccine - Salk, oral (Sabin), or Trivalent - be presented unless a written statement by a licensed physician indicates that the child's physical condition does not permit immunization, or a statement signed by parent or guardian that immunization is against his/her belief is submitted.

Bring a record of the date your child received immunization for diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, and smallpox, as well as the name of your family physician.

In addition, all pupils being admitted to California Schools for the first time must present evidence of immunity to measles (Rubeola) either as a result of having had measles, or of having been immunized against measles. There are certain exemptions from the immunization requirement if immunization is against the beliefs of the parent or guardian, or for medical reasons as determined by a physician.

HAPPINESS IS A LIBRARY CARD -- Tedi Perez, the 10,000th card registrant at Upland City Library, receives a complimentary book from the children's librarian, Mrs. Phyllis Frost. Twelve-year old Tedi said she got the card because she "likes to read." Her favorites are mysteries of all kinds and her most favorite book is "Old Yeller."

Zone hearing causes confusion

By JENNY KIRKPATRICK

After a lengthy public hearing on a pre-zone change, the city council denied the zone change and then later in the meeting rescinded the motion.

The maze of events started when Barmakian and Norman asked for a pre-zone change a month or so ago on unincorporated county property west of Mountain Avenue and 17th Street.

The request opened the doors to several other possibilities, such as first the pre-zone change, then a zoning of R-3600 and then a Conditional Use Permit for a mobile home park. Ordinarily, the different requests would have been heard in sequence.

However, Wayne Blanton, representing the Barmakian and Norman firm had presented a packaged request to both the council and planning commission.

The ultimate goal for all of the requests was to establish a mobile home park. The matter before the city bodies was zone changes and annexation. The mobile home park was to be considered later under a CUP.

Both at the Planning Commission and previous council meetings an attempt to unravel the matter was made. Into this confusing situation was injected the objections of a substantial number of people who did not want a mobile home park to go on that slot of land.

Finally, the Planning Commission gave the project a go-ahead after hearing only the pre-zone change.

The matter then came to the council Monday night and during the public hearing, Blanton again spoke for the firm he represented and presented slides of a mobile home park and answered numerous questions about it.

Many residents in and near the area voiced their opinions against locating a mobile home park on the site. The matter of taxation, crowding and degrading property values, were raised by the residents.

Blanton said the area was in the proposed Foothill Freeway area and was compatible with the agriculture that is now there.

Councilman Max Hawkins said he would not approve the zone change and commit himself to the CUP for a mobile home park.

Mayor George Gibson was opposed to a mobile home park and R-3-3600. "We have enough land now available for this type of zoning."

Councilman John McCarthy asked a special zone be set up for trailer parks instead of pre-zoning and then using R-3-3600.

After much discussion, the zone change was denied.

Under oral communications, the council voted to rescind the motion without prejudice after the husband of the owner of the property said they would be willing to take just the pre-zone change with R-3-3600. The matter will have to be reheard under a public hearing during a council meeting.

A "will call" window will be open between 8 a.m. and noon to pick up items where notices have been left.

There will, however, be Saturday mail delivery. The Mt. Baldy Post Office will also close their window service beginning on the same day.

Apathy arrested

A year ago we sat in our office and watched the pall of apathy spread over the city like smog. There was a defeatist attitude in the citizenry that they could do nothing to improve either the city government. Or, was there anyplace they could be heard.

If asked why they didn't attend meetings, they said, "It won't do any good" asked if they had called their councilman or school board trustee, they didn't know who he was.

We begged and pleaded with all groups to "do something" besides just sit and complain. The pleas fell on deaf ears.

Finally, the sign ordinance committee came along and for all of the summer months a battle raged back and forth between the city, the chamber and the citizens. Many people got involved and in doing so they found their ideas counted.

This action changed the course of the citizens attitude. If this group could get things done so could they.

Contrary to belief by some, changes can be positive and constructive.

Many new civic orientated programs are underway or anticipated and they involve people. Here are some of the programs that will be developed over the months.

1. Citizens have been asked to serve on appointive commissions and may submit their names to the council if they feel qualified to serve.
2. The parks and recreation commission will have their own chairman without a councilman's supervision and will seek citizens answers to the complex recreation and prak programs.
3. The high school students have asked to actively participate in the council and on city commissions, as well as to observe the workings of the city all year around, in addition to Student Government Day held annually.
4. The chamber of commerce industrial committee has been studying zoning and planning with the Planning Dept. and will shortly make recommendations to the Planning Commission.
5. The chamber of commerce has shown a forward looking leadership in getting necessary programs underway and in formulating goals for the business community. The Downtown Merchants Association has also taken leadership in the development of overall goals for the downtown area.
7. The People For Parks Committee has conducted a campaign to pass a Park Bond Issue in June. They are a hard working crew and are all volunteers from many organizations throughout the city.
8. The Upland School citizens committee have worked long hours in studying the district's budget and have made recommendations to the board.

Finally, there has been more interest than ever shown in citizen's participation in the city government and the schools. In the past few months a "standing room only" crowd have attended council, commission and school board meetings and voiced their opinions.

There is interest shown in developing parks by citizens and service clubs and many have already formulated plans to help out.

It is gratifying to see the pall of apathy lift and citizens participating, we salute these citizens and encourage them to keep up their interest in helping Upland grow.

Our Man In Washington

By BILL KENNEDY

WASHINGTON -- Police stand by under orders not to interfere while rioting mobs loot and burn stores ... university officials watch while rampaging students roam across campus breaking windows and overturning cars . . . a judge smiles down at a youthful offender before him and mildly urges him to mend his ways . . . a father gives his son a new sports car because he "wants" it . . .

All familiar stories on the American scene, seen almost daily in the nation's press. And all come under the common heading of "permissivness," an insidious thing that some sociologists say might eventually lead to the end of man as a species.

There is a parallel between man and the animal kingdom and in the matter of permissivness, man might well look to and emulate his less-developed cousins . . . if he would survive.

You don't find much permissivness in the animal world where a hostile environment demands harsh discipline for survival. Old fashioned ways of upbringing have kept mammals going for some 70 million years. It is nothing short of conceit for homo sapien -- youngest of the mammals -- to imagine he can survive without discipline.

PARENTAL DISCIPLINE in the animal world is a marvel to observe. These creatures survive through the knowledgeable use of instinct passed down to them through countless generations -- an instinct that remains even after an animal is living within the safety of a zoo.

You see young monkeys and baboons being chastized by parents who, unlearned in the ways of child psychology, often turn the youngsters across their knees and paddle them -- much as human beings once did in the olden days. It is amazing how many animals clout their young -- from hippos to grizzly bears. Others enforce discipline by biting or shaking.

The despised jackal is a most conscientious mother and will defend her young to death against hopeless odds. She spends most of her waking hours teaching her young to survive where nearly every hand is against them.

A strict disciplinarian, the jackal mother uses her sharp teeth to keep junior in line, knowing instictively from generations of experience that the jackal must be a solitary animal to survive. When the cubs reach maturity, the mother takes them far from home. And when their attention is directed elsewhere, she whirls and runs -- leaving them for the rest of their lives to fend for themselves.

IS THERE a lesson here for the human parent and child? Parents of the wild have to be tough and insist on toughness and self-sufficiency in their young. Their "cruelness" is, in reality, a "kindness," just as many parents might have instinctively known when wielding the strap.

The mother otter knows her young must swim to survive -- and she teaches them. Patiently, she shows junior how it's done before she insists he take the plunge. He rides on her stomach while she paddles on her back. Then suddenly she submerges and junior is on his own -- he becomes a swimmer.

An eagle stows a bit of juicy carcass on a ledge across from the nest of young. The young, having been starved for this event, see the carcass, mouths watering. In their excitement, they fall and frantically spread their wings -- and fly.

The zebra within a few hours after birth must keep up with the herd if he is to survive. While mother lions may bring meat to their young in a cave, the baby zebra must be on his feet and ready to move quickly -- or die. And the zebra parents see that junior does what is expected of him -- by shouldering, bumping and nipping his tender hide.

WHERE IN all this is there room for permissivness? It is no argument to say that man's intelligence makes the exception. Intelligence is not strong enough to counter the lessons taught by experience and knowledge, instinctive though it may be.

From a strictly biological point of view, permissivness is "out" in the animal kingdom and its prevalence in the human society might be a dire threat. The animal record of survival is a long one and there is no place in that record that even suggests permissivness could be tolerated.

AROUND TOWN

It is nice to see the new service road at Upland High school, it is very attractive and is certainly an asset to the area. Hats off to the council for seeing it through, the project took many long hours of negotiating. Speaking of roads, isn't it fun to see the little arrows pointing the way to go along Foothill Boulevard and Euclid Avenue, rather like a dance class with the little dancing feet.

HOT AND COLD

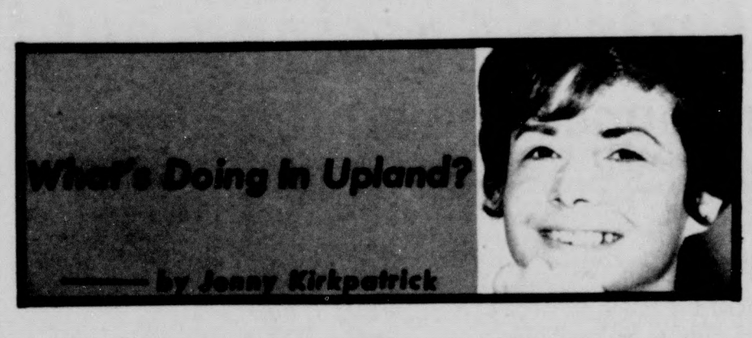

Mother nature still must have something against us, she is now blowing hot and cold. First she freezes us to death and then turns around in the same week and turns up her thermostat to HOT. Whatever we did MN, we're sorry, so how about some mild weather? Would you believe the coldest day and the hotest day all in one week?

BEACH COMBING

If you get a chance to slip away to the beach on an odd day, do so. It is well worth it. No one is around, and the ocean performs just for you with the little birds cavorting and visiting in your honor. Besides, there are plenty of seashells just waiting to be picked up. If you don't come back refreshed, nothing will help you.

Mothers are many people rolled into one. They are comfort, help, minders, counselors and they dispense love of all kinds. They never get sick, never get tired, but they do say "never" once in a while. We need Mothers not only when we are little but for the rest of our lives. They are truly the unsung heroes of the world, and on their day, we wish them happiness.

Senior Citizens tax forms are outlined

Claim forms for 1970 Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance will be mailed about May 1 according to Martin Huff, Executive Officer of the Franchise Tax Board.

The forms will be mailed to the 64,000 persons who filed claims and received a reimbursement last year, as well as to individuals who have already requested forms, Huff said. Others persons who believe they may qualify should write or contact the nearest office of the Franchise Tax Board after May 1.

Almost eight million dollars in assistance was paid to claimants last year, Huff said, and the payments averaged $123 each. The number of claims received last year was lower than expected which indicates that many qualified persons were not aware of this new law, he said.

To received assistance, claimants must be 65 years old or older; must own and occupy their home; must have paid the property taxes on the home; and must have a total household income of less than $3,350. Qualified individuals can receive both the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance and the Homeowners Property Tax Exemption.

Claims and requests for claim forms should be directed to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P. O. Box 1588, Sacramento, California 95807.

A total of 2,439 claimants in San Bernardino County received a total of $200,172 assistance last year, Huff said.

Claims for assistance must be filed after May 15, 1970, and before October 15, 1970.

Are 4-H youth farmers? 'No,' says national group

Even though 4-H Clubs have been operating for more than 50 years, and claim nearly 30 million alumni, the question still is asked: "Do 4-H'ers do anything besides raise livestock and chickens, grow crops, or can tomatoes?"

The answer is an emphatic "yes".

Another common query is; "Don't all 4-H'ers live on farms.?" The answer to that is definitely "no".

Only about a third of the 3.5 million live on farms. Another third reside in cities and small towns, and the remaining third live in rural and farm communities, according to the Federal Extension Service.

Altogether, there are some 50 categories of 4-H programs. Each attempts to educate, teach skills, develop character and leadership, and motivate the youngster to "achieve" by doing the job as well as he can.

Progress and achievement are interchangeable. The national 4-H achievement program, sponsored by Ford Motor Company Fund, recognizes these attributes.

Even the traditional farm-related programs have been restructured to keep pace with modern agri-business and home economics demands. The science approach to 4-H projects was begun almost two decades ago. Surveys, research, tests, experiments and evaluation now are routine for 4-H boys and girls.

Among projects added during the past 10 years are conservation, photography, food-nutrition, bicycle, horse, veterinary science, home management, consumer education and commodity marketing. Adults supervising project work are specialists in their respective fields.

Incentive awards offered annually by the achievement program sponsor are: medals of honor to the top four members in each county; an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago for the highest ranking member in the entire state; 12 Henry Ford II scholarships of $600 each to national champions. The scholarships go to six boys and six girls.

Approximately two-thirds of all 4-H members participate in the 4-H achievement program, reports the Cooperative Extension Service. The boys and girls who achieve state and national award status have been members from 3 to 10 years. Their ages range from 14 to 19 years.

DAR hears program on American Indians

San Antonio Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a luncheon meeting April 27, at the Upland Inn. The Regent, Mrs. Joseph Visnak, presided.

Mrs. Visnak gave a program on American Indians, a subject of great interest to the Daughters. In 1941 the National Society established a Committee on American Indians, the purpose of which was to help the American Indian to assume his rightful place in the American way of life. Since then hundreds of Indian boys and girls have benefited from scholarships provided by the National Society DAR, and have assisted their own people in furthering their own much needed education.

The Society's interests have centered in two schools, Bacone Junior College at Muskogee Oklahoma, the only accredited Junior College for American Indians in the United States; and St. Mary's High School for Indian Girls at Springfield, South Dakota, where courses in nursing and home making are emphasized. The latter school is supported by the Episcopal Church and the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Visnak showed slides of St. Mary's School, its graduating class and faculty members. Slides were also shown of nearby beautiful Pine Ridge Reservation in the Black Hills.

The Chapter held the election of its officers at this meeting. The following officers will be installed at the May meeting: Regent, Mrs. Maurice Bonillas; 1st Vice Regent, Mrs. C. G. Kissick; 2nd Vice Regent, Mrs. Newton Carman; Chaplain, Mrs. Oswold B. Thomson; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Joseph Visnak; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. William Garland; Treasurer, Miss Juanita Freewman; Registrar, Mrs. Peter Logan; Historian, Mrs. Myrtle Maggard; Librarian, Mrs. Eugene Robinson; Auditor, Mrs. Emily Knox; Parliamentarian, Mrs. Albert B. Cook; Directors, Mrs. Joseph Visnak, Mrs. Elmer J. Dahlstrom and Mrs. M. L. Gottfried.

Guests were Mrs. Sally Ryrie, Mrs. Joe Longo and Mrs. Lawrence St. Amant.

Laurie Jean Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Gardner Jr., 393 Hartford Pl., Upland, is a dancer in Northwestern University's 39th annual Waa-Mu Show. This year's original musical revue, "Booster Shot," will be presented for seven performances, May 4 through May 9, at Cahn Auditorium on the Evanston, Illinois campus.

Miss Gardner is a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences. She is a 1969 graduate of Upland High School.

College student in ad program

David W. Muffleman, of 1738 N. Euclid Avenue, Upland, is applying the "Madison Avenue touch" to his classroom work on the campus of Northwestern University.

He is one of a group of 38 students enrolled in a graduate advertising course which is developing complete advertising and marketing programs for two automobiles as part of their 1970 classroom work.

PTA will hear drug abuse program

The Upland High School PTA announces that Captain T. D. Smith of the Upland Police department will present a program on drug abuse on Monday, May 11, at the Upland High School, at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Captain Smith has been with the Upland Police department since 1960. He was promoted to investigator in 1963 and presently holds the rank of captain. Captain Smith attended local schools and holds an associate of arts degree in Police Science.

Captain Smith will present the film "Pit of Despair" which depicts modern youth and the narcotic problem. It is the PTA and Upland Police department's hope that through education and identification of drugs and symptoms of their abuse, parents can recognize the problem in the early stage and take corrective measures.

Orange Show grounds to keep busy

SAN BERNARDINO--- Three major rock concerts and the closed circuit telecast of the Indianapolis 500 auto race top the list of events scheduled on the National Orange Show grounds during May as interim activity resumes following close of the April 2-12 San Bernardino citrus exposition.

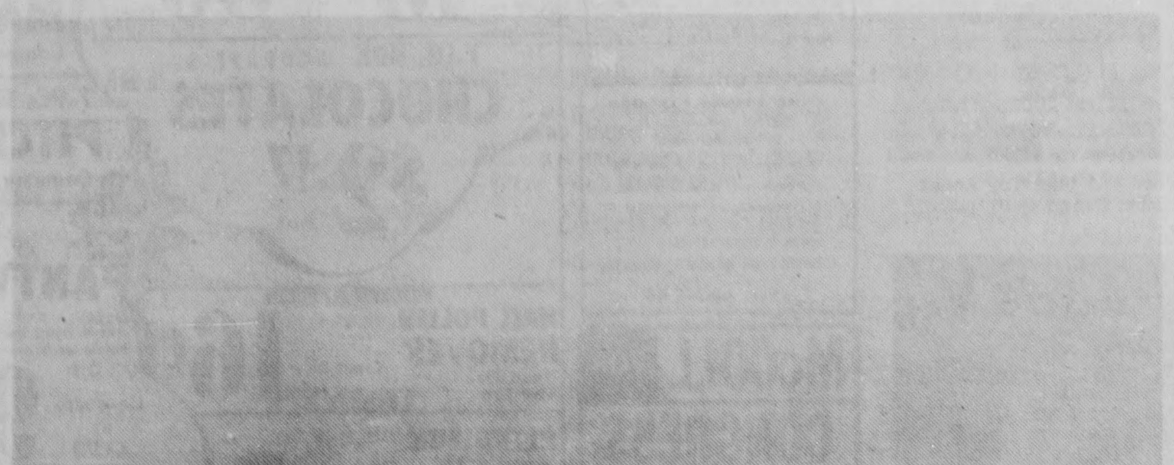

The first Swing Auditorium concert, May 2, featured Ike and Tina Turner with Eric Burdon and War.

Three Dog Night, which drew very well last fall, returns on May 8, while on May 23 a double bill featuring Joe South and Ricky Nelson is scheduled.

Roller Games return and will be held each Thursday night in Roller Game Hall. Five nights of regular NASCAR racing are planned on Saturday nights, with a Memorial Day "extra" on Friday, May 29.

The Urban League plans a stage show on May 22 in Swing Auditorium, and the Watchtower Society has slated a three-day meeting in the Commercial building May 22-24. The annual Scout-O-Rama will be held the May 23-24 weekend in the Flower building.

One of the major events planned in the National Orange Show Restaurant next month is an address by Undersecretary of Defense Richard L. Capen at a noon luncheon meeting called by Congressman Jerry L. Pettis (R-Loma Linda). The San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce is handling arrangements for the meeting, scheduled for Friday, May 22. Capen will explain the proposed cutbacks planned at military installations in and around San Bernardino County.

You probably won't notice that the air over Southern California will be a little cleaner.

But it'll be a little cleaner.

23 neighboring communities are converting some of their fleet vehicles to natural gas.

Not sometime in the distant future. Right now.

Right now we're providing up to six conversion kits apiece to 23 cities, towns and counties in Southern California for a one year trial period to demonstrate how natural gas can cut 90% of a vehicle's pollutants.

Over the year, we'll arrange for continuing technical assistance and fuel supplies.

We're also converting more than 1,100 of our own fleet vehicles.

With over 3½ million registered vehicles in Los Angeles County alone, we're under no delusions that we're going to eliminate smog.

But it's a beginning.

Our business is the gas business.

But part of our business is to help make Southern California a better place to live.

In the future, we and, we hope, others in Southern California will be working even harder, to convert more vehicle fleets to clean-burning natural gas.

There's an old rule about projects like this one. To start, you have to start.

THE gas COMPANY

Communities Use Natural Gas in Fleet Vehicles

LOS ANGELES—Twenty-three Southern California cities and counties are using a new weapon in the battle against air pollution.

They are converting several of their fleet vehicles to operate on clean-burning natural gas.

The Gas Companies of the Los Angeles-based Pacific Lighting Corp. are providing these communities with equipment to convert up to six vehicles each. The aim of this program is to demonstrate the smog abatement and operating cost benefits of the system.

Natural gas operation slashes the emission of contaminants from motor vehicle exhausts as much as 90%.

Gas Company officials in charge of the project report that they have received outstanding cooperation from the cities and counties participating in this program. They expect many more cities as well as private companies to install the fuel system.

Counties involved in the program are: Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino.

Cities which are participating are: Arcadia, Brea, Burbank, Covina, Glendale, Huntington Beach, La Habra, La Palma, Los Angeles, Montebello, Newport Beach, Orange, Palm Springs, Riverside, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, West Covina, Westminster, Whittier.

At this stage of development, Pacific Lighting's natural gas vehicle project is focused on fleet operations. This approach will produce maximum impact on the smog problem.

Pacific Lighting's gas distribution utilities are converting more than 1,100 customer service vehicles to the natural gas fuel system.

Among other users of the system are federal and state agencies and private fleet operators. The General Services Administration, for example, is testing the system at several locations.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has announced that the State of California will have more than 150 vehicles converted to the natural gas system in the near future. Pacific Gas & Electric Co., San Francisco, is converting 40 of its vehicles.

AFS Area Party

Upland High School was host to six AFS students Friday during its annual area party.

Rasmus Moller from Greenland, Emmanual Jean Nkurunziza from Uganda, Axel Weber from Germany, Oscar Lopez from Argentina, Veronique Diers and Marie Carole de Behan, both from France, attended school with out students and were guests that evening at a party.

Saturday morning, the AFS club and the foreign exhange students traveled to Busch Gardens in Van Nuys for a tour of the famous beer gardens. That afternoon they journeyed to Legg Lake for a fun-filled afternoon.

Perhaps the students went to their homes in the area, not only with a better knowledge of the Los Angeles area, but also with the feeling that Americans do want to promote world peace.

New Officers

UHS proved that they do care about the leaders of the school recently as they turned out in droves to vote in the ASB elections.

The candidates chosen to fill the student council offices are Chris Griffith, president; Greg Martin, vice-president; Dave Lombard, pep commissioner; Pam Grady, corresponding secretary; Carolyn Nickolei, social chairman; Randy Garliepp, treasurer; and Steve Milliken, advertising manager.

'Mommy and Me'

Next Wednesday night, the Girls' League of Upland High will present its annual Mother-Daughter Banquet at 6:00 p.m. "Mommy and Me" - the theme for this year's feast - will feature a ham dinner, a fashion show with clothes from Contempo of Montclair, the announcement of next year's cabinet, the awarding of Miss Congeniality, and a special surprise entertainment.

Tickets are only $2.25 and can be purchased in the bookstore. Girls, be sure to treat your mommy to a night she'll never forget!

Cal Poly Workshop

Saturday the members of the Plaid Press staff will travel to Cal Poly, Pomona, to attend a journalism workshop. With hopes of garnering awards for the Plaid Press, three issues of the newspaper were submitted for competition.

O.K., gang let's see some action this time.

ICC Carnival

If you enjoy food, music, games, and rides, you're cordially invited to attend the I.C.C. Carnival this Saturday, being held on the tennis courts at UHS. Becky Roseberry, I.C.C. president, guarantees a fun-filled day for those who attend.

Admission will be 75¢ for this carnival, which will begin at 9:00 p.m. Late that evening, a dance, featuring a live band, will be held for all interested teenagers.

Case of three abandoned kids

The parents of three abandoned children now being cared for in foster homes of the Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions, are urged to contact the Department to either claim back their children or provide the agency with information about them which would facilitate being placed for adoption, Supervisor Ernest E. Debs, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, has announced.

According to Walter A. Heath, Director of the Department of Adoptions, "If adoption for their child in each case is the parents' decision, background information about the child is necessary to insure prompt placement in a good adoptive home. The information about the child, which the parents alone can give, will help him greatly to have a good start in life and secure his future."

The three children were abandoned within a recent three-month period. The first was found last Christmas Eve in a bundle placed on the doorstep of Saint Vincent's Church at Adams Boulevard and Figueroa Street in Los Angeles. It was a brown - eyed, black-haired baby girl, seemingly of racial mixture, fair in coloring and pretty and looking none the worse for her being exposed in the chilly evening. She was comfortably wrapped and had a full day's supply of milk. She was about a week old and weighed eight pounds. A docotr pronounced her in good condition. She was placed in a foster home where she has remained since.

The second was a baby boy, hardly three months old, that a young girl placed into the arms of a total stranger at Maple and Fifth Streets in Los Angeles, in the early afternoon of last January 6. "I'll be back,' the girl told the surprised woman as she quickly disappeared among the passers-by, but she neither returned for her baby, nor was she ever seen again. The baby, wearing a comfortable sweater, appeared to be of Mexican or American Indian descent.

A month later, in the afternoon of February 8, a Sunday, a man anonymously notified the police over the telephone, that he had left his baby in back of a liquor store at 11935 Inglewood Boulevard. The police found a white baby girl in a box, snugly wrapped in sweater and blanket. The doctor who examined her found her well, and determinded that she was just about two days old.

The careful way in which the parents of all three babies protected them from the elements by getting them dressed in warm, comfortable clothing, indicated that they were parents who loved and cared but who, for one reason or another, were forced to take the sad step of abandoning them.

The parents need not have taken such drastic measures, had they known that to needy young mothers, assistance including counseling and financial aid could be provided either by the Protective Services of the County's Department of Public Social Services, or by the Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions.

All three children are normal and healthy, receiving excellent care in foster homes of the Department of Adoptions. As is usually the case in all abandonment of children by parents, each child has been given a "Certificate of Finding" issued by the County Health Departmnet. The certificate carriers a name chosen for the child, and a birthdate determined as close as possible to the real date. The certificate is a necessary step to make the child eligible for adoption.

Would adoption be what the parents want for their children? Or, would they care to get them back? The Department of Adoptions must know immediately and it is therefore urging the parents of each child to contact the agency by writing or calling Mrs. Anna Waldbaum, County Department of Adoptions, 2550 West Olympic Boulevard, Los Angeles, 90006, telephone 381-2761, extension 230. Every case will be treated in utmost confidence and dignity. Director Heath points out that if no word is received from the parents concerned the agency will place the child for adoption.

NSF grants

CLAREMONT- Twelve students at Claremont Graduate School will study under grants from the National Science Foundation during the summer of 1970 and the academic year 1970-71.

The Graduate School received three summer traineeships and eight 12-month traineeships for students working on advanced degrees in science, mathematics or engineering. The awards, worth a total of $45,326, provide stipends for the students and reimburse the institution for tuition and fees or cost-of-education allowance.

The National Science Foundation Graduate Traineeship program for 1970 totals over $28 million. All graduate traineeship appointments are made by the academic institutions concerned.

New federal home financing

A new federal financing program for families who have failed to qualify for new homes previously is available at Lewis Homes-Pomona, a project that is part of a $5.2 million residential development planned for that city.

Under thr program, recently approved by Congress, an eligible homebuyer can purchase a new home with financial assistance from the government. This assistance can, in effect, reduce his interest rate to as low as one per cent.

A homebuyer who is eligible for the program and has a monthly income of $495, for example, can purchase a $20,200 Balanced Power Lewis Home for $122 a month. This is about $99 a month less than a homebuyer who qualifies without assistance, and has a monthly income of $876 would pay.

The difference between the monthly payment of the homebuyer with and without assistance is paid each month by the Federal Housing Administration. The total monthly payment covers the principal, interest, taxes and insurance for the homes.

Homebuyers who are interested in this financing program can get further information by calling area code 714,626-8581. Minimum - down FHA and VA financing are also available.

Lewis Homes-Pomona, initially, will include 30 four - bedroom, two-bath single family residences. Kitchens will feature dishwashers, ovens and ranges, spacious pantries and garbage disposals.

Wall-to-wall carpeting in the living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms, fiberglass tubs and showers and Formica countertops also have been specified. Built to meet rigid FHA standards, the homes will have fully insulated ceilings and central gas forced air heating.

The homes are under construction at Franklin and San Antonio Avenue, on a portion of the former Shelton Turkey Ranch across the street from Simons Junior High School and within two blocks of Alcott Elementary School.

Developer Ralph M. Lewis plans to build approximately 300 apartment units and townhouses on adjacent property within the next two years, as well as 80 additional homes following the completion of the first unit of Lewis Homes - Pomona around Aug. 1.

The Lewis organization, which has built more than 2,200 homes in Southern California and Nevada during the past 15 years, has other developments at present in Pomona, LaVerne, Upland, Chino, Fontana, Redlands and Las Vegas, North Las Vegas, Henderson, and Boulder City, Nev.

SOMEDAY EVERYONE WILL PRACTICE "TRUTH IN PACKAGING"... LUCKY DOES IT NOW!

The Lucky Truth In Labeling Policy is simply to let you know EXACTLY what you are buying... This is important because in recent years the various names for the same cut of meat have increased to the point of confusion. For example: Minute Steak, Bar-B-Q Steak, London Broil, etc. are being cut from round steak. They are cut slightly different and sold at a higher price. Lucky does not subscribe to this practice . . . At Lucky a round steak IS a round steak and honestly labeled and priced as such!

This is just one example... Our policy holds true for every cut of meat we sell – all honestly labeled and Discount priced!

Tax tales

The Tax Court, in a dependency case, relied upon the Greco-Roman adage, "A sound mind in a sound body." The dispute was whether a divorced mother could count an eight-week camp fee towards her contribution to her son's support.

While the Internal Revenue Service argued that support meant the necessities of life, the Tax Court held that camp benefited the boy's development.

A way to save on insurance

LIKE TO BRING YOUR SON'S CAR INSURANCE RATE DOWN? -- HERE'S HOW

SAN FRANCISCO -- If you are the parent of a teen-age driver, you know better than anyone else that insurance costs, for the privilege of allowing that young man to drive, are high. But do you know that there are steps you can take to bring those rates down?

Do you really need a high performance "muscle car" for family use? You can save almost ten per cent on that insurance bill if you go for the standard model.

If a driving school is available to your son, either through his school or through an accredited driver training course, by all means see that he attends it and graduates from it. That can bring your rate down another 15 per cent.

If your son is already a good student, or can be encouraged to "hit the books" and become a good student, there's more money to be saved. If he can make a B average or better in his school, you'll find that he may be eligible for a good student discount, reducing the auto insurance premium even further - by more than 20 per cent.

Why? When your son becomes a good student, a driver training graduate, or both, companies can lower the premiums because past experience has shown young men in these catagories have fewer accidents. And fewer accidents mean lower claims costs, and thus a saving for you and your family.

Here's another tip --if you are a two-car family, and policies on both cars are issued by the same company, you may save approximately 25 per cent on the second car.

La Verne tackles problem facing many small colleges

La Verne College, in Southern California, is doing something about the problems which face small colleges across the country.

Recipient of a $19,800 grant from Educational Facilities Laboratory of the Ford Foundation, La Verne's Dr. Leland B. Newcomer is attempting to demonstrate how new building materials, technology, and creative use of open spaces can reduce by approximately one-half the cost of traditional approaches to building educational facilities.

In addition to these facilities, he wants to alter a traditional program of undergraduate education by emphasizing "learning" rather than "teaching". Dr. Newcomer also wants to develop a management and operational model in which income from services rendered equals operating expenses. In September, La Verne College, with an enrollment of 1000, will initiate an evaluation system designed to raise the level of scholarship. A system of honors, credit and non-credit evaluation will assist to implement a custom-tailored curriculum for each and every student. The College will start a dual system of teaching and learning procedures which includes traditional courses and a procedure of challenge or negotiation which allows alternative means of achieving learning objectives.

"We are junking the assumption that students must be taught in order to learn," declared Newcomer. "And we are doing away with the concept that the element of time is necessary to the measurement of learning," he continued.

"We will attempt to measure the product, which is learning, rather than the process, which is taking courses or accumulating units of credits or grades," Newcomer said.

"In this day and age," he remarked, "it is impossible to assume that all needed knowledge resides in a professor's head."

"Learning in any subject area can be as broad and deep as resources are available and modern technology will allow. Therefore, learning is not restricted to the courses taught, or to the knowledge and information possessed by the faculty. Emphasis on grades and rigid course requirements stifle and discourage creative and enjoyable approaches to learning," Newcomer continued.

"With modern technology," he declared, "and more sophisticated evaluative techniques, it is now possible to personalize and tailor a student's educational program and learning procedures to his unique skills, abilities, and potential."

A student's involvement in the design, development, and evaluation of his educational program is necessary. According to Newcomer it will tend to increase his commitment to, and develop his responsibility for his own learning. This will tend to increase the chances that learning will become a satisfying and lifelong pursuit, he believes.

Small, private colleges through the country are faced with the ever increasing problem of survival. Competition with tax supported institutions for student dollars and for well qualified faculty members is increasing. The ability of small colleges to attract affluent trustees is limited. Philanthropic and Foundation support is in jeopardy.

Tuition cannot continue to rise sufficiently to care for increased costs under existing administrative and operational styles. Consequently, the dual system of higher education faces a severe threat. With the exception of highly endowed institutions, the small, private, liberal arts college faces possible extinction.

It is Newcomer's contention that some small private colleges are worth saving because they have something unique to contribute to American society. He is attempting to turn a quiet little church founded college into a dynamic educational institution.

Upland Savings pays the maximum interest on insured savings. No other insured financial institution in America can offer you higher interest or more insurance, because all insured financial institutions' interest and insurance are regulated by governmental regulations.

Upland Savings is a part of America's insured savings system whose total assets exceed $150,000,000,000.00 (150 billion dollars) and where, throughout America, over 44,000,000 (44 million) savers save.

As a savings counselor, we suggest you look at more than the stated rate of yield of investments. If you had needed to "cash-in" your investment before maturity this past year, you would sustain substantial losses. In 1969 only Upland Savings would have returned your investment plus high earnings.

Upland girl seeks dairy contest title

Among the latest toenter the annual district dairy princess contest, which will be held Wednesday, June 3, 1970, at the D.E.S. Hall in Chino, is Debi Fichaux, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Mudd of Upland.

She will compete with other girls from the counties of San Bernardino and Riverside for the district dairy princess title and the opportunity to represent this area at the thirteenth annual California Dairy Princess contest in Hollywood June 23-25.

Debi Fichaux will graduate from Upland High School in June. She plans to attend Chaffey College to major in business.

Entries are being accepted for the local contest from among girls between the ages of 17 and 25, unmarried, at least a high school graduate by June of this year, and with a dairy farm, dairy industry, or related dairy industry background of some kind.

Dairy Princess Handbooks, describing contest procedures, rules, and regulations, plus an application form, are available from area dairymen, or by contacting the Milk Advisory Board, 3711 Long Beach Blvd., Suite 912, Long Beach 90807, telephone (213) 426-9656.

Cast told for opera opening

Marilyn Fitzgerald will portray the niece "Antonia" in the musical "Man of La Mancha" which opens May 15 in the California Theatre of Performing Arts in San Bernardino, Miss Fitzgerald, widely known for her clear beautiful lyric soprano voice, will also bring her own attributes of freshness and demurity to this role.

Howard Keel will star in the dual roles of "Miguel de Cervantes" and the „ageless "Don Quixote.

Well known to local audiences, Marilyn Fitzgerald will be performing her fourteenth role for the association with this production. Past Civic Light Opera roles include "Carousel," "Show Boat," "Guys and Dolls," "Song of Norway," "Peter Pan," and the title role in the Irish musical "Carrie!"

Her Redlands Bowl appearances are numerous, and include the Gilbert and Sullivan leads as well as "Brigadoon" with Brian Sullivan. Others are "Iolanthe" and "The Mikado."

She has also sung many roles with the Riverside Opera.

"Man of La Mancha" won the coveted New York Drama Critic's Award as the best musical of the year in 1966.

The musical score and lyrics of "Man of La Mancha" were written by Mitch Leigh and Joe Darion, respectively and include such hits as "The Impossible Dream" (The Quest), "Little Bird," "Man of La Mancha" and "Dulcinea." The book was written by Dale Wasserman.

Tickets for "Man of La Mancha" are now on sale and can be secured at the Civic Light Opera office, 2079 North "E" Street, San Bernardino, and the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

ARMY RESERVE

Army Reservists have served this nation with distinction in both World Wars, Korea, during the Berlin Crisis of 1961, and are doing so today in Vietnam.

'Pandamonium' girls motto

The Montclair Golden League girls' softball began action last week, and pandamonium was the password. The games were specifically designed for the spectator who is bored with pitcher's duels.

The girls play every evening at 5:45, six days out of the week. Sunday, as the Good Book says, is a day of rest. And do the girls need it after a hectic week of running around the bases!

The league is set up similar to Little League; with a minor league and a major league. Girls range from 9-15 years of age, but play like adults.

Teams composing the minor league are Roma Pizza, Kremer's, Our Lady of Lourdes, Vincent's Camellia Gardens, IAM, Sizzler, Woolworths Garden Shop and Mt. Fuji Gardens.

The professional (major league) are Andy's Fine Food, Montclair Dairy, Pizza Palace,, Vince's Restaurant, Aylor Roofing, and Minute Space.

Flowers honored

Nothing adds more color to a park than flowers. And nothing added more color and liveliness to a little league baseball game than did the late umpire, Bob Flowers.

It is quite rare when a Little League umpire is respected by players and fans alike. But everyone enjoyed the work of Mr. Flowers on the diamond. However, no one enjoyed his work more than he.

In due respect to the man, San Antonio Park was officially renamed "Bob Flowers Memorial Park." Jim Bryant, of the Daily Report, presented a plaque to Mrs. Flowers during opening ceremonies of the Foothill Little League. The plaque will be placed permanently in the ball park.

CAVALIER HANK MERENDA -- Digging for second in Montclair's big five-run fifth inning. The Cavaliers took the decision over Pomona 6-1. Merenda gave the Cavs a big win over Chino with a line shot single, driving in two runs.

Cavs tilt Chino, Pomona

Montclair High School's baseball squad pulled to within one-half game of front-running Chino High and Claremont. The Cavaliers knocked off the Cowboys early in last week's action, and then destroyed Pomona last Friday afternoon by a 6-1 count.

Pomona got off to a fast start, taking a 1-0 lead in the first inning, but the Cavs didn't waste any time knotting the score. The lone Red Devil tally came in the first on Brad Kepple's homer to left field. Montclair came back in the third with walks to Scott Cassells and Chuck Wright, followed by a walk and a long sacrifice fly by Hank Merenda.

Cassells pitched a nifty three-hitter, allowing only two in the last six innings. Besides this, the Cavalier ace scored a pair of runs.

Gregg Campbell led the Cavalier attack with a pair of hits in four trips to the plate. Mike Jones, Ralph Chavez and Ken Harrison rounded out the hitting for Montclair.

Harrison broke the game open in the fifth inning with a bases-loaded single up the middle to start the Cavs off on a five-run merry-go-round. Gary Ellison, the Red Devil hurler, could have gotten out of the inning easily, but was the victim of a costly error in the fifth.

Merenda gave the Cavaliers a 4-2 win over Chino earlier in the week, driving in two runs with a line single in the fourth.

It was the 2nd win over Chino.

Little League roundup

Upl. Nat'l. sees no-hitter, homers

Upland National Little League got off to a slow start, with Upland City Councilman Max Hawkins throwing the first pitch over the plate.

But when the boys took the field, the action really started! The first game was a thriller from the start. Boyd Lumber and Medco Realty fought a nine inning duel to a 3-3 tie, but in the tenth, Medco pitcher Alonso Carrasco hit a bases loaded single for the win.

Carrasco had fanned ten Lumbermen in the nine innings, exhibiting good control throughout the contest.

The second game was called in five innings due to a time limit, with Rotary bombing Holland Paving, 14-2. Ironically, the season's first home run was by Holland's Bobby Smith. Smith followed up his round - tripper with a double his second time at the plate and scored his team's only two runs.

After the first home run, the fence seemed to get closer and closer. Stag Shop's catcher, Ted Mahoney, blasted two over the barrier and another off the fence for a double. He ended the day with a perfect four for four.

Allura Dairy's Rodney Morris provided the only hit for his team, as they dropped the one-sided affair, 16-0.

But the records didn't stop here. Etiwanda Steel pitchers, Jim Scott and Mike Avery combined to pitch a no hitter, while their team was busy scoring five runs.

Both Scott and Avery collected a double, as did catcher Tony Sanders, and Avery added a single to boost his average.

Kiwanis' lone run came as a result of an error, as the shortstop overthrew Sanders at the plate.

No-hitter for B. Klippenstein

Everyone threw their aces at opposing teams in the opening day games of the Foothill Little League. Brent Klippenstein of Ralph's Rascals replied with his coaches wishes by pitching a no-hitter in the first game against Fence Craft. His team went on to win, 6-1.

Skycrest Ford battled five and one half innings with 7-Up before scoring the tie-breaking run. Steve Schiro scored on Chris Hoffman's single up the middle. Schiro also awarded his team with the season's first home run; a solo blast in the second inning.

Sierra Lathing got bombed by Olive Tree. Olive Tree's Jay Morton put one out of the ball park, starting a five-run inning. The final outcome of the contest was a 6-1 victory for Olive Tree.

In the final affair of the day, Lesondak Plumbing rallied for five runs in the fifth inning to dispose of Upland Kiwanis 5-2.

Upl. American

Upland American Little League swung into action last Saturday at Hargis Field in Upland. The league played host to several dignitaries during the opening ceremonies, with the Little League and Minor League teams taking an active part with their managers and coaches.

Games will start at 10 a.m. and continue through 4 p.m. every Saturday until July 11. There will also be one game every week night at 6 p.m. Everyone who enjoys lots of baseball action is welcome to attend. Admission is free.

CC Spikers finish 2nd

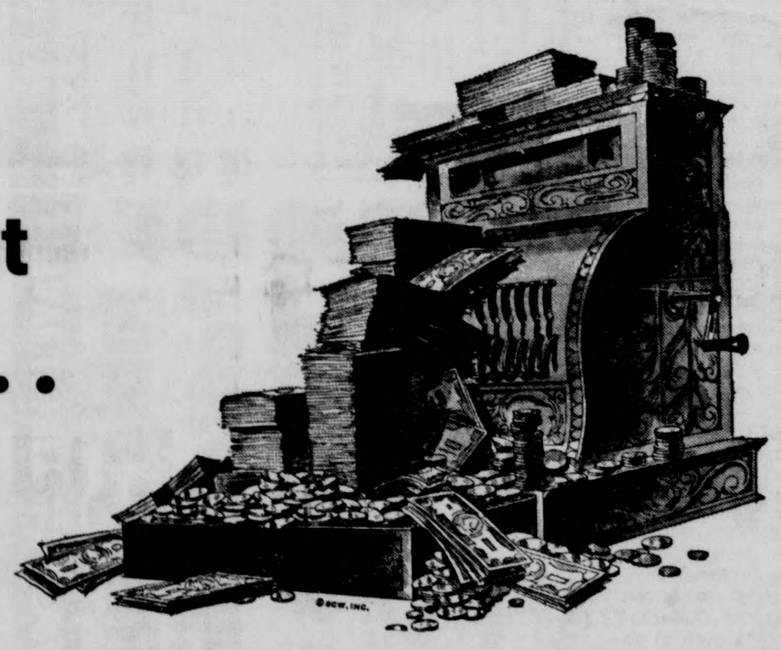

Despite of extensive optimism on the part of Panther Track coach, Charles Hicks, Chaffey College had to settle for second place in the final Mission Conference standings. Grossmont was the official winner, remaining unbeaten in the dual meets, and taking the Mission Conference finals at the Panther's home field.

The Panthers looked like they would take it all up until the final three events. But Grossmont amassed 31 points to take a 145-127-1/2 win away from the Chaffey Spikesters.

Despite the loss, the Panthers had some outstanding performances from their athletes. As expected, Ernie Cathcart won the shot put, but Rich Downie was a surprise winner in the javelin. Downie's 198-5 in the event gave him first place and a Chaffey College record. Joe Brogdon got into the picture with a pair of fourth-place finishes in the javelin (186-6 1/4) and the high jump (6-0).

Chaffey's 440 and mile relay teams won as usual, but did an outstanding job in the process. The mile relay team set a new school record (the old one was set by them also, one month ago) with a 3:19.7 clocking.

REDUCE NOW TO HAVE A NEW FIGURE FOR SPRING

LONG BEACH WOMAN REDUCES 68 POUNDS FROM a SIZE 21-1/2 TO A SIZE 14, STILL GOING DOWN

Mrs. Rhodes, a nurse, weighed 215½ pounds. She reduced 61 pounds and 76 inches. Mrs. Rhodes wrote, "I finally decided that since my children are now married that if ever I was going to live a "slim" life I'd better get at it . . . all these years I had wanted to be a tiny petite instead of a size 52 and now that I've reduced so much I can even dream of being a size 9 . . . I can see it in my Pat Walker Crystal Ball.

Mrs. Rhodes, in the photo with Pat Walker, is now a size 14 instead of a size 52. Mrs. Rhodes wrote, "The most pleasant way to reduce which could be dreamed of is what I found at the Pat Walker Salon . . . the new Photometric accurately measures those "inches off" but I really don't need to be shown the results because it is such fun to not be recognized by an old acquaintance and have to tell them who you are.

NEW COMPUTERIZED REDUCING MAKES ALL OTHERS OBSOLETE

Reducing Authority International Compares the Old Methods to Her Revolutionary Computerized Equipment and Program

Through the years reducing has been associated with much promise and little produced programs, many owned, franchised or managed by "get in and get out" 'promoters' and 'salespeople' who used reducing and the desire of sincere women as a pawn to further their own personal gains."

This has been a stigma to the reducing business and has always been a thorn in the sides of sincere people dedicated to the field of reducing and the needs of women the world over.

Many such companies have come and gone, but unfortunately some still exist and will probably continue to exist.

But fortunately today a woman is better educated about reducing. She has in many ways been exposed to and experienced the good and the bad. She has heard and read promises made that any intelligent woman knows to be impossible to produce. She has been approached and sometimes fooled into thinking there were devices and programs that could perform miracles in a few short hours and days and that she could pick a dress size she wanted to be and by making an appointment she could in a matter of days be that size. She's been told if she picked up a phone and was one of the "1st lucky 30" she could reduce for mere pennies. Or read of one kind or another new "now you can have your cake and eat it too," food fads that perform miracles overnight with the figure.

In spite of all that has been said and done in this field there still remains one very well known and recognized fact and that is "the need to reduce and the desire to better oneself is just as strong as it was before."

It is with complete sincerity and pride that I can tell you about our new and revolutionary reducing program. We now have new equipment and programs that invite comparison; that has dated all reducing methods such as women have known. Reducing that eliminates guesswork, obsolete equipment and idle promises. A program that faces a woman's reducing problem realistically.

This, I might say, has not been an easy or uncostly project. Much time, experience, research and development has gone into such a program. But the outcome of such a project is new equipment and a program complete in every aspect that faces all phases of a woman's reducing problems thoroughly, scientifically and realistically.

You'll Reduce in All the Places You Should

by Miss Pat Walker the Internationally Recognized Reducing Authority

Now that Spring and Easter will soon be here it suddenly makes a woman realize that her figure is so important to her because the coming warm weather means wearing the new figure revealing fashions.

All too often, a woman will tell us how her last year's year's Spring and Summer were ruined because she tried on her previous year's dresses and sportswear and found the added inches and weight made it impossible for her to wear them. And after shopping for new clothes, she became demoralized and disheartened because nothing looked the way it should. This resulted in a minimum wardrobe "just to get by" and the excuse of why she didn't want to be seen at social activities.

It is a shame that all too many women experience this because in truth it need not happen. Today, it is better to invest money in a new figure than try to buy clothes to disguise it. You can buy your figure back just as you would purchase clothes, furniture, automobiles or anything else.

The only thing is that it is a service and you have to come to the salon to get it. But, it is nice to know that we make reducing most pleasant and therefore a woman enjoys the time spent with us.

I visit with so many, many women of every age, walk of life and nationality, and each woman thinks her figure problems are so very different from another woman's that it will work for the other woman but not for her.

After a figure anaylsis, she realizes her figure problems are really not so different and that thousands of others have experienced the same problems that she has and suddenly she regains hope and faith that something can be done for her and her own figure problems. When she has had her figure analysis, she knows where she needs to lose, what it will cost her, and how long it will take.

It is a very proud, secure, happy woman who receives compliments and attention of those closest to her because she becomes a new person both in appearance and personality. This has not been luck on her part, she made her own luck when she recognized she had figure problems and came to us for help.

ANY WOMAN CAN HAVE HER PERFECT FIGURE

By Miss Pat Walker
The Internationally Recognized
Reducing Authority

"Why, oh why, did I wait so long to start a reducing program?" moaned an overweight lady as she came rushing into one of our salons. "Now I'll look absolutely awful in all my summer clothes."

That remark — paraphrased, of course — is repeated many times by patrons who hurried in at the last minute hoping for the impossible — an instant, overnight shape-up.

It's only natural, of course, that a woman should want to look attractive on special occasions. But it's the wise, intelligent female who makes a ritual of looking her best at all times — regardless of age or season.

Miss Pat Walker

After all, there are only a few things any woman can be absolutely certain of in this life. She cannot be sure of always having her worldly possessions. There's no iron-clad insurance against losing husband, family, position, security, happiness and good fortune. Th[illegible]t a happy thought but if a woman will honestly face the reality of truth, she will know that this is in truth a fact.

But one thing about which a woman can be certain—as long as she lives—is that her body is the house in which she lives. It's a smart woman and a realistic woman who openly takes inventory of herself and decides whether she's satisfied or not satisfied with the "house she lives in" — and then if dissatisfied, she makes the decision of doing something about improving her figure and appearance.

If a new figure is her decision, she'll feel proud and want to "show off" the "lovelier house" in which she lives. Or, if not, she'll find reasons to hide her figure . . . and to settle for second best.

I feel sad for any woman today who will settle for a poor figure. It is so unnecessary. Perhaps that was woman's fate back when bustles were the vogue—but not today because any woman, regardless of her age or regardless of how long she's had her figure problem, can reduce to bone structure and firm and tone to wear her perfect dress size . . . and after reducing she becomes a new personality, thankful that she did not settle for second best and with pride in herself looks forward to a whole new concept on life and what it holds.

And with zest, every day, she looks forward to—does not dread—every special season of the year!

Here you see Penny Sugg ready for new "close-ups." She has lost 2½ inches from her under-bust; 3¼ inches from her waist; 4½ inches from her abdomen; 2 inches from her hips; 7 inches from her thighs; 3 inches from her calves and 2 inches from her upperarms.

New communications system for airport

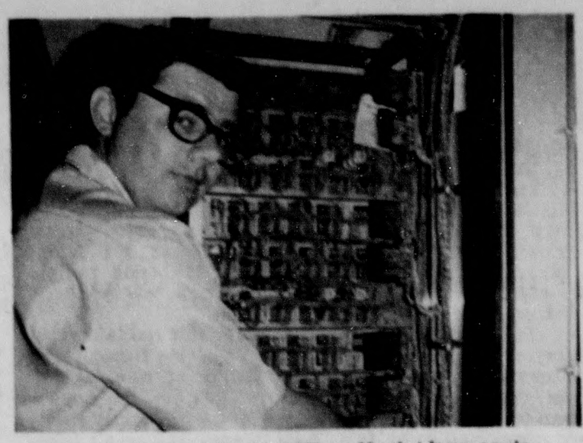

General Telephone Company has just installed a new type 301 cordless PBX switchboard associated with a paging system for the Department of Airports at the Ontario International Airport.

Dale Eckrote, Division Manager for the utility, said that the cutover from the old system was accomplished on April 26, 1970 with complete continuity of service. He explained that the paging system is accessed by all stations on the PBX system and utilizes 60 speakers at various locations at the Airport.

New booths have also been installed at each passenger loading gate. These booths are equipped with the necessary communication equipment to handle last minute flight emergency conditions.

Eckrote added that during May twenty five of the new panel type coin telephones will be installed in new acoustic booths located at strategic points at the airport. In June, he said, a personal paging system for key personnel at the airport will be installed.

This system will provide immediate availability of key personnel to an emergency situation.

INSTALLATION COMPLETE -- Herb Alton, equipment installer for General Telephone, makes final adjustments on the complex equipment used for new Ontario International Airport communication system.

Art show tells the story of Salvation Army

A full range of contemporary art styles and techniques from pop art posters and montages to pictorial water colors, each a visual interpretation of a specific Salvation Army service, will go on exhibit in the Los Angeles area in May.

This totally new concept of original paintings and sculpture depicting The Army's services to mankind will premiere in Century City on Friday, May 8, and continue to be exhibited through Saturday, May 23. Site of the exhibit will be the lobby of 1901 Avenue of the Stars, according to Lt. Colonel Orval A. Taylor, Southern California Divisional Commander, Hourse will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays; from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Fridays, and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

A free Salvation Army coffee house will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. on three consecutive Fridays, May 8, 15 and 22, during the run of the show, at the Pavilion Kitchens on the mall.

Hospital manager seminar

SACRAMENTO - In an effort to battle rising hospital costs, a series of management seminars for hospital middle management personnel will be held throughout California this spring.

Initially 38 three-day work sessions have been scheduled. They follow 16 very successful seminars held last fall and winter for top hospital management. Many of the nearly 300 hospital executives who attended last year's seminars considered them the best such work study sessions in their experience.

The seminars make up one phase of a broad management development program begun formally by the California Hospital Association in the fall of 1968. This program was spearheaded by Samuel J. Tibbitts when he took office as CHA president that year and is being continued under the current CHA president, Thomas E. Tonkin.

Tibbitts is president of the Lutheran Hospital Society of Southern California, Los Angeles, and still is actively involved in hospital management improvement as chairman of CHA's Hospital Management Committee.

During research for seminar development, which was undertaken in California hospitals, it was found that while hospital department managers are technical experts in their own fields -- ranging from scientific food preparation to X-ray -- they are not always aware of the complex administrative relationships of their department and other hospital departments.

Seminars are designed to give intensive training and an overall view of hospital administrative operations to incure tive operations to insure smoother teamwork among hospital departments.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

PERSISTENCE

Persistence is an admirable quality, most of the time. Everyone admires the individual who "puts his nose to the grindstone," who "works at the problem," who "just won't quit."

Persistence is not to be admired when it is of an unreasonable nature, when it is born of pure obstinatiness or the determination merely to have ones way, without deference to others.

If you would lead a proper life, always strive to do everything well. Be diligent in seeking to gain the things in life that you want and need. Yet, always consider the cost — to yourself and to others. A gain or a profit that is ill-gotten, that disadvantages someone else, should be little source of satisfaction.

Let your persistence be reasonable as well. Don't set yourself up for a disappointing failure by refusing to believe that you will always win if you try hard enough and long enough. Oftimes, what one man considers impossible is achieved by someone else who persists, who works harder and longer. But such a man is usually wise enough to know that he cannot reach out and touch the moon with his fingertips.

Jupiter: a look at the past

The planet Jupiter is composed primarily of hydrogen and helium and is thus very much like a star in its chemical composition; in particular, very similar to our special star, the sun.

According to Dr. Tobias Owen of the Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago, this giant planet in its present state of development may be a type of solar fossil retaining the relative abundance of chemical elements in its make-up that existed in the primordial nebula from which our solar system was formed.

This possibility has interest beyond its cosmological significance from the standpoint of theories of the origin and evolution of life.

It is commonly agreed, writes Dr. Owen in "Science," that life originated on the earth under conditions very different from those we know today. The primitive atmosphere of the earth may have been composed mainly of methane and ammonia--gases that are known to exist on Jupiter.

Experiments in which electrical sparks are sent through mixtures of methane, ammonia, and water vapor (and it is now virtually certain that there is water on Jupiter) have led to the formation of complex organic compounds that are considered essential precursors to the development of life.

Components are obtained by microsurgery under the microscope or by high-speed centrifugation that separates cell parts from one another.

None of the parts from which the new cells were assembled can survive on their own; within a short time after a cell is disassembled, the nucleus, cytoplasm, and cell membrane disintegrate.

Basic procedures of reassembly are removal of the nucleus from one cell; then most of the cytoplasm remaining is removed to the extent that the part remaining could not survive even if a new nucleus were inserted into it; "refilling" the membrane with new cytoplasm; and insertion of the nucleus taken from another cell.

The success of these reassembly experiments means that scientists now have the technical ability to assemble amebas which contain any desired combination of components. This capability in turn can be used to test the condition of particular cell components, and perhaps give more precise information on how cell components relate to one another in a functional sense.

MD-DO controversy

SACRAMENTO - The Third District Court of Appeals here has issued a far-reaching ruling that in effect means that a 1962 enactment which all but abolished osteopathic practice in the state may be unconstitutional.

In the ruling handed down by Justice A.E. Bray and concurred in by Presiding Justice Fred R. Pierce and Justice Edwin J. Regan, the appelate court reversed the rulings of a superior court which upheld an argument presented by the Attorney General's Office.

Alex Tobin of the Upland firm of Tobin and Gassner, attorney of record for the eight petitioners who instituted the proceedings against the state boards of medical and osteopathic examiners, was ecstatic.

"The Appelate Court agreed with our argument all the way. They said, in effect, the Board of Medical Examiners was wrong in believing there was a difference in the competence and training between the medical doctor (M.D.) and a doctor of osteopathy (D.O.).

"Our whole argument was based on the fact that a physician and surgeon, whether he be a D.O. or M.D., is equally qualified and as such these men are equally entitled to practice their profession. These osteopathic physicians and surgeons were being denied their basic right in California, the only state in the union to do so.

"Since the enactment, which practically destroyed osteopathic practice in California through attrition, not one new doctor of osteopathy has been licensed.

"In a time when the general practitioner is becoming scarcer and scarcer, and since 80 percent of osteopaths are in general practice as opposed to 20 per cent of M.D.s, this law, in effect robbed the people of California of doctors. No wonder it's so hard to find a doctor willing to come to your home," Tobin said.

The court opinion now means, Tobin said, the Superior Court must have a trial, hear all the evidence and, according to Judge Bray's opinion, must determine whether there is any reasonable justification for classifying DO's differently than MD's.

If no reasonable justification can be found, according to the opinion, then the 1962 Proposition 22 must be held unconstitutional.

Tobin, a political candidate for San Bernardino Superior Court judge in the June 2 primary, said the decision also drastically affects Proposition 1 on the forthcoming ballot.

The State of California, in Proposition 1, seeks permission from the voters to sell $246 million in bonds to finance three new medical schools.

"With this decision (by the Appeals Court) the people must now take a close look at the question and see exactly what it means. It doesn't take too long to find out that even if these schools were built tomorrow, it would be five years before the first doctor could be turned out to practice.

"It also means that the people will have to repay some $500 million in interest and principal to get the money now."

Tobin pointed out that since 1962, no new osteopath has been granted a license in the state, "meaning that the state has lost between 150 and 200 practicing physicians and surgeons each year."

Dr. C. Crichton Brigham of Gualala, Calif., home of the Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons of California (OPSC), hailed the appeal court decision.

Osteopathic colleges are located in Des Moines, Iowa; Kansas City, Mo.; Kirksville, Mo.; Chicago, Ill.; Philadelphia, Pa.; and Pontiac, Mich. A new college is planned for Fort Worth, Texas.

The Upland attorney who first entered the case more than two years ago, pointed out that less than one percent of new MD graduates enter general practice with the rest entering specialized fields.

Tobin said that historically there has been a constant battle for recognition between the California Medical Association, "who believe their's is the only way to treat a patient," and the American Osteopathic Association.

"Originally there was one medical board which examined and granted licenses to both osteopaths and allopaths (the generally accepted form of medical practice) but internal strife tore the factions apart and an initiative in 1922 set up the Osteopathic Board.

"Both these boards operated within the framework of the same document, the California Medical Practice Act, and used the same standards for education and training.

"But after quite a bit of political infighting, Proposition 22 was finally put on the 1962 ballot and the voter, without really knowing what it meant, approved the initiative.

"In essence, the proposition said it was causing 'a merger of two fine professions', but the small print killed the chance for any new osteopaths being licensed in the state.

Law in action

A person with a cause for legal action, like a personal injury, should not dawdle in pressing his claim. If you do not file a complaint or go to trial within certain time limits, the law bars later legal action.

Besides, a court can dismiss your claim if the case is delayed too long before trial. For example, a case must be brought to actual trial within five years after the complaint is filed or it is dismissed and the court may dismiss a case if it is not tried after two years.

Take Suzie Starr. She slipped and fell at a church social, hurting herself badly. She sued the church. Her lawyer filed her complaint right away. The defense wanted Suzie's medical history; and it had some questions about what happened.

At first Suzie refused an examination by independent doctors. After a long delay, she agreed. Then she wouldn't go to the opposing lawyer's office to answer questions. Two years passed. The lawyers for the church asked the court to dismiss the case for lack of prosecution. The court granted the motion.

If her suit was to stay alive Suzie would have had to show excusable delay in bringing the case to trial. She didn't.

The plaintiff has to press his claim even though the defense causes some delay.

When an injured party seeks special relief, such as an injunction, the suit may be barred by "laches". The court frowns upon delay in the enforcement of any rights.

In one such case, a civil service worker was fired. After six months, he filed for a writ of mandate in court to get his job back. Meantime, the city had searched nationwide to replace him, and his successor had been at work for three months. Although the replaced worker might once have had a good lawsuit, the court said he delayed too long. "Laches" prevented his action.

SCHOOL DISTURBANCES

Suppose an accident happens at school. When a pupil gets hurt, is the school liable? Generally, no, but it depends.

The school district's duty is to supervise children on school grounds and to enforce its rules. It must also meet foreseeable events and act with ordinary care. A school which fails in these things may well have to pay damages to the injured student.

But no school guarantees safety; even acting reasonably it cannot foresee everything. Besides, a school may lack money, for example, to patrol the streets, or to have all the safety it may want.

For example, the law allows schools to have safety patrols at crossings. But it has no legal duty to protect pupils between home and school.

A student injured by accident can always sue the student who caused the accident. But such students often cannot pay. To make a school liable in such events, the court expects a showing that the school knew, or should have known, of the dangers and had failed to protect the student properly.

Rowdy students often threw things about in one school's metal shop. A missile hurt one student while the teacher was out for a moment. He sued the school and collected damages. It had not supervised the room properly.

In another case, with no teacher present, children rushed onto the playground. One boy pushed another into a basketball goal pole. He sued the school. While the school should have had a supervisor there, the judge did not make it pay damages. The accident could have happened even with a supervisor on hand.

An injured student must do nothing to help bring on his own injuries. As a rule he cannot collect damages if he had been warned of dangers or knew of them himself.

PROMISE TO GIVE

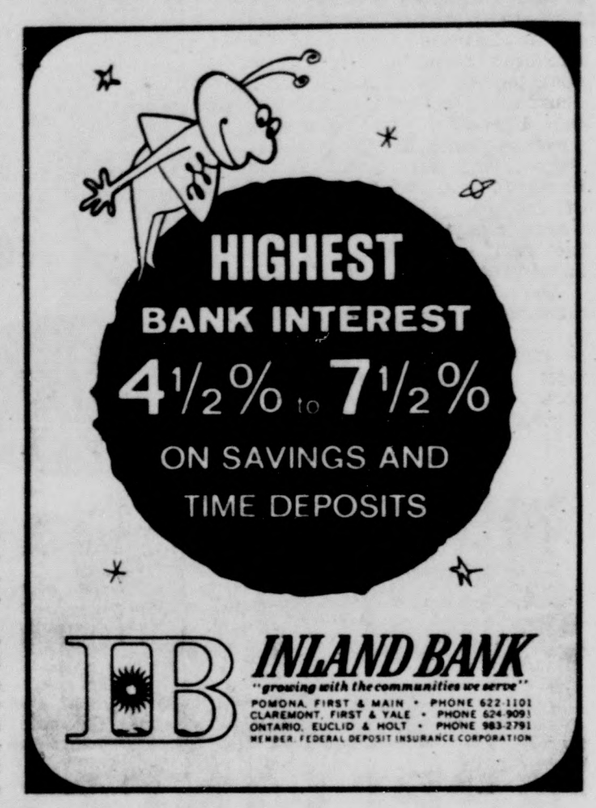

With exception, the law does not enforce, as it would a contract, a promise to make a gift. Promises do not carry 'considerations,' that is, promises in return.

The promisor can revoke a gift if the person promised does not act in reliance on it and there are no others joining in the project. The single promise or pledge is just an offer which can be revoked unless others act in reliance upon it.

Take Oswald Church He promised to give money to help a new community hall. His pledge read: 'In view of the gift of others, I welcome the privelege of subscribing $10,000.' But Oswald changed his mind later, and the charity went to court to enforce his pledge. Oswald said that when he withdrew his pledge, the charity had done nothing in reliance on his pledge. He had therefore entered no contract. At most, he said, his pledge was just moral, not a legal commitment.

But the court said Oswald was wrong. Other donors had given when they knew that people like Oswald had also given to a project for the benefit of all. No one can withdraw without the consent of the others who have joined in the project.

The law would enforce promises by an employer to pay a bonus to an employer to pay a bonus to an employee, for example, if in reliance on the promise he had worked hard and refused other jobs. Even though the bonus is a gift, the employees reliance on the promise makes it binding.

"HAPPINESS IS A VISIT TO THE MAGIC TOWERS"

Brethren churches unite in 'Funds for Americas'

LA VERNE - Four local area congregations of the Church of the Brethren are combining in a drive to give financial assistance to projects aimed at helping supply the needs of the poor, whether black, brown or white. This is a part of a nation wide, "Fund for the Americas" set up by the denomination during the past year.

Currently representatives from these projects are being heard during Sunday morning or evening services. Ward Walker of the LasCasas Unidas in the 12th Street area of Pomona spoke at the LaVerne Church of the Brethren recently. He will be speaking in each of the other churches, the Pomona Church of the Brethren, the Fellowship Church of the Brethren in LaVerne, and the Church of the Brethren in Glendora. The goal of the four churches for Las Casas Unidas is to help pay the rent and utilities for this barrio center.

The center has been established by the people who live in that area for the youth. It is aimed at helping them with their problems including drug abuse. It is also a recreation center. The churches aim to give $600 to the project.

The South Hills Neighborhood Center is also beneficiary of the fund drive. The goal of $2,000 has been set to help provide needed equipment and supplies to help increase the services of this center.

Young people who have worked in the summers in the EYOA work training program are being heard at the four churches. They tell about their learning experiences on jobs provided through this service which is government sponsored. Although funded by the federal government, the monies are limited, according to Mauri Flora, director. He is urging the churches to give $2,400.

Flora mentioned that some young persons may came from families which have an income only slightly more than the government limitation for classification. They are then denied the work-training opportunity. He would hope that the churches will take care of the salaries of at least six of these young people. He says that jobs are waiting for them in the agencies where they are allowed by the federal government's stipulation. They can be hired in job-training positions on staffs of the cities as recreation leaders or doing other work where they are actually trained to do a job, such as in Headstart, or in an office. Young people between the ages of 16 and 21 from the East San Gabriel Valley, Azusa, Glendora, Covina, San Dimas, LaVerne, Claremont and Pomona, have been in this program for the past several years.

The Fund for the Americas, established by the Church of the Brethren nationally, is an answer to the demands for reparation made of the Christian churches by black leaders. At the annual conferences in June, 1969, it was agreed that black people should be helped, but the conference determined that other people needed church help also. It was determined that the Church of the Brethren would promote the assistance of already established services to the poor, with emphasis placed on projects which were helping black or brown people.

Churches of the Brethren throughout the United States have been encouraged to investigate needs in their own areas and help with them in addition to any nationally promoted projects.

Special programs slated at St. John's Episcopal

LA VERNE - Saint John's Episcopal Church of La Verne -San Dimas is having a number of special programs on coming Sundays at its new site, 4745 Wheeler above Baseline in La Verne.

This Sunday, May 10, St. John's will honor both Mother's Day and the Ascension Day of Christ.

On this family Sunday children will construct and color crowns and other symbols of Christ the King. At the end of the service the children, wearing the symbols they have made, will join the adults and lead the congregation outside to release 75 helium baloons. This is to dramatize the theme that Christ ascended into all parts of creation to become ruler of the universe.

Next Sunday, May 17, is the festival of Pentecost or Whitsunday. This is the birthday of the Christian Church and the day of the Holy Spirit. Part of the birthday festivities will include a kite flying contest at the end of the 9:30 a.m. service.

Any person in the community aged 1-101 is welcome to enter. Funny kites, unusual kites, plain and pretty ones, too, will win awards. One member donated a new camera as first prize. So start building or buying your kite right away.

Sunday, May 24, there will be a special program put on by the youth. A book festival will also be held so people in the community can look over or buy old favorites and new books on religious life, personal growth, modern living and holy scripture.

Last Sunday the congregation left the building in the middle of worship to process out into the church yard for special Rogation Day prayers. Rogation Day originated as an occasion to pray for the problems of an agricultural world. The day has now been broadened to include prayers for all the needs facing humanity. St John's outdoor procession with the people praying the litany sought to express Christ's Concern for the whole world both in and out of the Church.

FREEZER TIP

Marking meats and baked goods for your freezer? To avoid confusion, label each parcel carefully — naming the contents of the package, the weight (if it's meat), the date it was frozen and its approximate storage life. A porous point pen, such as Flair by Paper Mate, marks clearly and neatly. You could get completely organized with a color code — a red Flair pen marks meats and poultry items, blue lables pies and cakes. Black Flairs could designate breads and muffins and perhaps green porous point pens could be your home-packaged vegetables. It's a good way to freeze with ease.

Growth for '70s

By 1980, San Bernardino and Riverside counties are expected to have a population of 1.5 million people, a total personal income of more than $6 billion and employment should reach 500,000 workers, according to an economic forecast released by Bank of America.

William H. Baughn, regional vice president of the bank's San Bernardino-Eastern California Region, presented details of the forecast - "Focus on San Bernardino and Riverside Counties" - during the 19th Annual Business Outlook Conference held in San Bernardino.

The event was co-sponsored by the San Bernardino County Economic Development Commission and the Riverside County Department of Development.

Key elements in the area's future development will be the continued influx of industry from the Los Angeles Basin and other regions of the nation, and growth in the retail and services sector as population and personal income expand, Baughn explained.

Manufacturing activity is expected to continue as an important contributor to employment in the area. Manufacturing will employ 79,000 workers in 1980, 46 per cent more than currently.

"The area has a large supply of relatively inexpensive land, well suited for industrial development, and its transportation facilities are among the finest in California since the area is a regional center for several railway lines," he said.

Baughn explained, however, that manufacturing in the area is small by California or national standards. Only 15 per cent of total employment is in manufacturing compared with 22 per cent in California and 26 per cent in the nation.

The rate of manufacturing expansion in the future will depend largely on the particular industries which are located in the two counties. San Bernardino County's manufacturing base is dominated by steel and metal fabrication; Riverside County's base is dominated by aerospace-electronics.

Long-term trends indicate that both these broad industry groups will grow rapidly in the future. In addition, Baughn added, the two counties are diversifying into other lines of manufacturing, particularly electronics, aircraft parts, mobile homes and modular housing units.

Steelmaking is the largest manufacturing industry in the two-county area, Baughn said. The only integrated steel mill on the Pacific Coast is located at Fontana, and the area accounts for 70 per cent of the raw steel output of California and more than 40 per cent of the seven Western states.

Total output of raw steel in San Bernardino County is estimated at more than three million tons per year -- twice the level of a decade ago.

It is estimated that, nationally, steel output will increase at the average annual rate of about three per cent in the next decade. If the steel industry in San Bernardino grows at the same rate, then total steel output in the county will increase to about four million tons by 1980.

The most serious problem currently facing the steel industry, Baughn said, is the growing competition from imports. In 1968 imports (mainly from Japan) accounted for nearly 28 per cent of the western steel market and the percentage is steadily increasing.

In assessing the long-term outlook for aerospace-electronics in the region, Baughn said two points should be emphasized: (1) the area has been a late entry into this industry compared with other aerospace electronics centers of California and ranks only sixth in the state, and (2) about one out of every four manufacturing workers in the area is attached to this industry group, compared with the statewide average of one in three.

Baughn said the prospects for growth in the aerospace - electronics complex are obscured by the war in Vietnam as well as by the increased emphasis on defense cutbacks. Over the long rage, however, many industrial experts feel that the ending of the war should result in further growth.

The banker pointed out that despite the inroads of urban and industrial expansion on available acreage and the continued decline in the number of farms and farm employment, total agricultural output will continue to increase in the years ahead.

"Agriculture was once the dominant activity in the two counties, but it is evident that it alone cannot provide the economic stimulus required in a growing and sophisticated region," he said.

The future contribution of agriculture to the region's economy will come mainly through the growth in output and income through the consolidation of farms into larger and more porductive units.

"In 1968, total farm output of the area was valued at nearly $365 million, 37 per cent above the 1960 level. At this same rate of growth, farm output in 1980 would exceed $500 million or roughly 10 per cent of the total farm output projects for California," he said.

Baughn said that based on production trends and potential markets, the long-run outlook for the region's farm products are good.

Like every large metropolitan area in the United States, San Bernardino and Riverside counties face a variety of urban problems.

The most serious problem facing the two counties, he said, is the mounting pressure of population.

"Although the rate of growth is decreasing, the total population will increase by 325,000 people between 1970 and 1980.

"Undoubtedly this kind of population pressure will mean an ever increasing need for heavy capital investment in the region's public and private sectors, particularly for new educational services, expanded police and fire protection, lar- nd fire protection, lar- r waste disposal sys- ms and better transpor- ion facilities," he said.

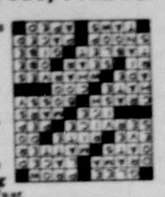

Copies of the "Focus on San Bernardino-Riverside Counties" are available at no charge at local Bank of America branches and from Chamber of Commerce offices.

More treatment

The VA in 1971 expects to increase treatment of inpatients by about 3,800, to more than 875,800 -- a record high for VA's hospital program.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

People and Clouds

Spring is just around the corner. The signs are already here. Children playing baseball. Young people strolling hand-in-hand along the avenues. Greenery and colored flowers pop up in meadows and on the hillsides.

There is a game that children play. Most of us played it in our youth, as youngsters still do in spring and summer. We can still play it without arousing suspicion of our adult peers. It's called, among other names, "reading the clouds." It's an interesting game for one, but much more revealing when two or more are playing.

When the blue sky is filled with clouds, study the clouds intently. See what forms take shape there. Listen to the children play: "I see the face of a man." "I see, over there, a horse." "That's not a horse. It looks like a dragon to me!"

In clouds, as with many other aspects of life, few things look exactly the same to more than one pair of eyes.

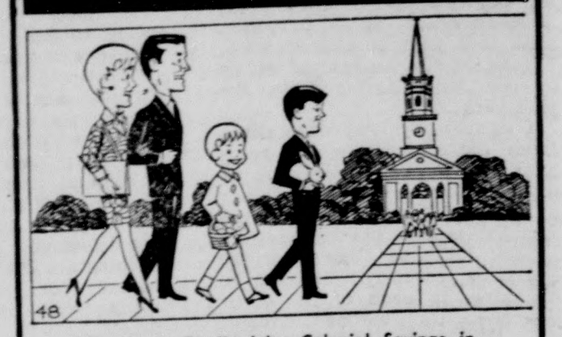

Did you ever consider that it is the same where people are concerned? Have you ever asked a friend, "Just what is it that you see in that guy? I don't like him at all."

Play the game of life as you would play the game of the clouds. Never believe that what you see, or what you believe or understand, is all of it. Listen to others. You may understand what they see and believe. And, you will be much better off for doing so.

SPIDERS BUG OUT

All adult insects have six legs. Many creatures closely resemble insects and are often mistaken for them—for example, spiders, which have eight legs.

'American' key word for antique collectors

"American" has become the key word in today's antique market, reflecting a fascination with the American past which replaces a former interest in European ties, according to a lecturer in the UCLA Extension series on "Survey of American Antiques."

The interest in things American is noted by Dr. Phillip E. Frandson, associate dean of UCLA Extension, who spoke recently in the Leo S. Bing theater of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd.

Dr. Frandson grew up surrounded by some of the prized antiques of today, in the heart of America's Great Plains farmland. As it later developed, he had a certain insight as to which of these objects would prove to be of lasting significance.

He began saving old butter paddles and other wooden utensils such as an early 18th Century snow shovel, and a set of sauerkraut forks. As Grandmother discarded, he collected.

There were the tin lighting fixtures, the punched tin teapot, gray granite kitchenware, fruit jars. Beginning with these first objects, today his home is a treasure-house of unusual and hard-to-find antiques that tell the story of America.

Dr. Frandson observes that Americans are "moving into an ear in which virtually any functional item is becoming a collectible item."

Americans today are collecting items which are "uniquely and specifically American, all the way from gum wrappers to psychedelic art, lighting devices, and advertising art," Frandson says.

The traditioanl boundary lines which define value are "simply disintegrating," the lecturer said.

"It is patently clear to me that the generation of youth today have a different set of values, concerns, emotions, than did the people of the 19th Century. The things which capture the imagination of youth are the things which I think are collectible."

The concern of youth today, more so than in previous generations, is with sight and sound. "It is now possible for youth to surround themselves with a permanent collection of sight and sound, of many dimensions, and it is pretty advanced technology.

"We already see that the voices of a man like Frank Sinatra are a nostalgic element in other people's lives. Sinatra records are an instant antique."

In California there are also bottle collectors, and as an example, Avon bottles are one of the hottest items on today's antique market. Some Avon bottles, Frandson notes, which are only a few years old sell in the hundreds of dollars. The same is true of Coca Cola bottles.

"Coca Cola is an instant antique today," Frandson said. The fact that Coca Cola made a minor change in its "logo" (or trademark typography in 1970 puts all Coke advertising art prior to 1970 into the realm of history.

"The 1970s herald a new era for Coca Cola collectors, like a new year's vintage of coins."

Although the classical collector of fine furniture may look at these instant antiques with a "horror of temporariness," Frandson believes it cannot be ignored that the instant antique has passed beyond the phase of being of fad.

Furthermore, he believes, anitques have passed from the exclusive interest of the moneyed classes into the domain of the middle and lower income classes.

"Collecting now for the first time, has become an activity of virtually every class. A number of reasons contribute to this, and one of them is affluence."

Beyond that, Frandson said, is the fact that Americans have outworn the shackles of their European orientations. "We are increasingly concerned with our American identity, if indeed not our internal subcultures and ethnic identities. Part of our ethnic identity is holding onto, and collecting, those things which are part of our culture. America is the key word today in antique collecting," he said.

The significance of youth also plays heavily in the decision on what is collectible. "The things that meant something during youth tend, for psychological and social reasons, to be the items that we surround ourselves with through our nostalgic years."

Though this has always been true, it is particularly significant now because of the democratization of antique collecting along with the democratization of all other aspects of American society, Frandson believes.

Los Angeles, he observes, is today the prototype for the entire nation in the collecting of the instant antique, and in Los Angeles can be found a clue on the future of the national antique market. For every shop in New York featuring today's "instant antiques," Frandson observes that a dozen or more such places can be found in Los Angeles.

Bank expands services for senior citizens

POMONA -- Milton B. Ball, retired former Pomona city councilman, has been named Business Development Officer for Inland Bank, Pomona Valley independent with offices in Pomona, Ontario and Claremont.

The announcement was made today by Wilson H. Asdel, Inland's president.

Ball retired from business life six years ago after 41 years with the Southern California Edison Company.

Asdel said that he welcomes a man of Mr. Ball's stature to the Bank's staff because of his extensive circle of friends, especially among senior citizens. The Bank, for years, has tried to assist the aging with pioneer special services, including free checking accounts and free checkbook balancing.

"You may be sure," said Asdel, "that we will intensify our very real concern for the aging by making Ball our special liaison with them."

Ball represents Pomona on the county-wide committee on affairs of the aging and heads the Pomona Valley Council on the Aging. He is active in community affairs and recently made a trip to Washington, D.C. to receive a beautification award on behalf of a Pomona Chamber of Commerce Pomona Beautiful Committee, of which he is chairman.

He is also chairman of the Pomona Safety Council and the 35th District Senatorial District Republican Central Committee, among other civic organizations.

Franchise payments distributed

Several cities in the Pomona - Ontario area were included in the more than $1,327,900 in franchise payments paid to Los Angeles and San Bernardino Counties and various cities in both counties by Southern Counties Gas Co.

Earl Kinne, Eastern division manager for the utility, said that Los Angeles County was paid $246,900.82 and San Bernardino County received $38,637.57.

Among the cities receiving franchise payments were LaVerne, $11,559.97; Montclair, $17,146.09; and Upland, $29,665.32.

Franchise payments are made by investor-owned gas, electric and water utilities for the use of public streets and highways and for the privilege of serving customers in those areas.

Hard life for card crooks

A squad of bank detectives, backed by computers and a unique tracking technique, is making life painful for credit card criminals in California.

The undercover agents work for BankAmericard, and their 1969 anti-fraud record would make James Bond jealous.

Aided by computers and an elaborate tracking system, the agents can hunt down a "hot" credit card with amazing speed. Last year, BankAmericard investigators -- working with law enforcement agencies -- helped handcuff more than 1,200 credit card artists.

All were handed over to the courts for prosecution.

Because the bank detectives usually retrieve stolen cards before criminals can abuse them, Bank-Americard losses from thefts in 1969 were negligible.

Most cards reported missing aren't stolen at all and 95 per cent are never misused. Usually, the owner misplaces it and finds it later behind a chest of drawers or in the washing machine or some other out-of-the-way place.

If you think your credit card has been stolen, you should notify the issuing company immediately. The faster we know about it, the agents say, the quicker we can get it back.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

During 1969 a total of 20,857,655 passengers used the scheduled airlines serving LAX International.

Employment

The VA estimates that in 1971 its Department of Medicine and Surgery will have an average employment of more than 142,000, the highest in its history.

IRS tax clearance for aliens

All aliens leaving the United States must secure tax clearance from the Internal Revenue Service.

Departing aliens may apply for their certificates of compliance, known as a "Sailing Permit" at least 10 days before the departure but not earlier than 30 days before departure.

Such travelers should appear at the nearest IRS office with a copy of their 1969 Federal income tax return and proof of payment, and a statement of income and taxes withheld or paid for 1970. They should also bring their passport and visa or alien registration card.

"Sailing Permits" normally can be issued quickly, provided the alien has all the required information. The IRS main office in Southern California is located at 300 N. Los Angeles Street, Los Angeles, California. Aliens may call (213) 688-4040 for further information.

Adoption agency lauded

Children's Home Society of California has been honored by the Child Welfare League of America for 50 consecutive years as an accredited member agency, in opening ceremonies of the League's 16th Annual South Pacific Regional Conference at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

Child Welfare League vice president Mrs. Alexander B. Ripley presented the League's golden anniversary citation to Children's Home Society state president Lewis F. Boddie, M.D., stating "Children's Home Society is a charter member 'that continues guarding children's rights and serving children's needs.'"

National standard-setting body in the child welfare field, the League was organized in 1920 as a federation of child care agencies in the United States and Canada. Children's Home Society, established in 1891, is the League's only founding member still operating in the South Pacific Region, which includes Arizona, California, Hawaii, Nevada and Utah.

The close working relationship that has existed over the past 50 years between Children's Home Society and the Child Welfare League was further demonstrated in the two principles involved in the presentation. Mrs. Ripley and Dr. Boddie are serving simultaneoulsy as directors of both the Child Welfare League and Chilren's Home Society.

Operating through 22 offices in California, Children's Home Society is the largest privately supported counseling and adoption service in the world.

LV Scouts to sponsor bean feed

LA VERNE - On Saturday May 9, Boy Scout Troop 411, sponsored by the United Methodist Church of La Verne, will hold its 7th Annual Bean Feed on the Church Grounds at 3205 D Street, La Verne.

The main feature is an "all you can eat" specialty. Home cooked Mexican style beans with corn bread, cole slaw, honey and butter, with choice of coffee or punch, will be served.

The price still remains unchanged; adults $1 children under 12, 75¢. Dads of the members will be the cooks, boys will do the serving, starting at 5 p.m. and lasting until 8 p.m.

The purpose of this fund raising event is to acquaint La Verne and San Dimas residents with the troops operation, and to provide a place for an old fashioned community social.

Each ticket that a Scout sells gives him a commission to apply to his summer camp adventure with the Troop. This year the Troop plans to go to Badger Flats in the High Sierras for the week of June 20 to 27. Tickets may be purchased from any of the 49 members of the Troop or at the door.

The Scout Barn will be open for inspection. Join the Boy Scouts in a real Old Fashioned Bean Feed on Saturday May 9, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

AG candidate urges stiffer enforcement of existing laws

State Senator George Deukmejian of Long Beach, candidate for state attorney general, toured the Pomona Valley-East San Gabriel Valley last week.

He started his day in Pomona at his headquarters, followed by a half-hour visit to the Claremont Republican headquarters, and later appeared in San Dimas for a press conference, which preceded a noon luncheon in the civic center auditorium, honoring law enforcement officers throughout the two valleys.

More than 100 representatives attended the luncheon, after which the senator visited Glendora for a tour of that city's new police facility.

During a press interview, Senator Deukmejian stressed the need for stronger enforcement of existing laws and stated that, if elected as Attorney General of California, he would try to persuade judges to analyze their sentencing of criminals, and have them take a more comprehensive view of criminal punishment.

The Senator stated that he would like to see a thorough study made on correctional system and stated that he was strongly opposed to legalization of marijuana.

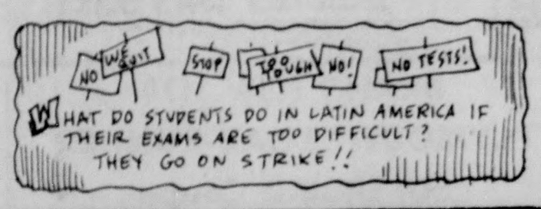

Deukmejian has served eight years in the state legislature, four as an assemblyman and four as a senator, representing the Long Beach area where he resides and has a law firm.

He has authored many bills in the state legislature to assist law enforcement agencies to fight crime, including the creation of the California Council on Criminal Justice which enables California to commence a systematic coordinated statewide attack on crime.

ITEM: The best indicator for keeping track of your weight is an honest look at yourself in a full-length mirror. You should be able to tell if you've gained a few pounds or if your weight is about right.

ON TOUR -- Senator George Deukmejian, campaigning for the office of Attorney General, is pictured at right as he is greeted by Mayor D. F. Hooper of San Dimas while visiting that city. Senator Deukmejian was honored guest at a "Law Day" luncheon at the San Dimas Civic Center recently.

'Integration' also means something to agriculture

Integration in Californation agriculture has a second meaning one which has a social importance equal to the basic interpretation.

Integration in agriculture can mean a systems approach to pest control and away from primary reliance on pesticides or any other single factor.

As developed by scientists at the University of California at Riverside, integration of pest control includes the use of pesticides, but equal emphasis is placed on the use of biological controls and on manipulating crops in a manner that disturbs nature's balance the least.

Dr. Harold T. Reynolds, chairman of the university's entomology department, told the Council of California Growers this integration approach to pest control has made some significant achievements.

It kept applications of pesticides to low levels when the spotted alfalfa aphid was brought under control several years ago. This has great importance because the alfalfa is a prime ingredient in the production of milk.

Biological control (where the bad bug's natural enemies are unleashed), cultural practices and the development of resistant alfalfa varieties, plus selective pesticides, all play important roles in controlling the pest, Reynolds said.

Dr. Reynolds believes integrated control in most crops is just a matter of time.

The use of these integrated controls minimizes the development of resistant strains of bugs, encourages the growth of beneficial insects, helps control potential pollution problems, and helps hold down production costs. All of these, of course, are beneficial to both agriculture and the general economy.

Dr. Reynolds predicts that the future will bring a number of additional breakthroughs in man's efforts to control injurious insects. Amoung these many be sex attractants, juvenile hormones and sterilization of male pests.

"A progressive agriculture is needed to continue to feed a growing population," O. W. Fillerup, exective vice president of the Council of California Growers, commented. "These continuing efforts to develop better pest control programs, and to minimize the use of chemical controls is typical of agriculture's progressive approach to this problem."

USMC has enlist-delay program

Local Marine recruiters have announced that the Marine Corps is offering a 180-day delay program, allowing recruits to sign up but not start active duty until six months later.

The program provides immediate draft exemption, providing induction orders haven't been received, and the 180-day period is credited toward completion of the total military - service obligation.

More information can be obtained by calling 714-624-3814 or 624-8104.

Summer camp is fun!

Camp Fire Girls, Mt. San Antonio Council, offers lots more, too, at its Camp Nawakwa in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Beginning June 29 with the first session of camp members and non-members alike will be offered one of the greatest learning experiences of their lives.

Summer camp is fun, but it's lots more, too. It's where lifelong friendships are made, it's where skills are learned that may even save a life; skills like learning how to swim and not be afraid of the water, life saving and how to handle a boat.

Camp is discovering a pollywog, a frog, a lizard or a ground squirrel. Camp Nawakwa can help develop both mental and physical skills, improve sportsmanship, leadership, self reliance and aid the girl in becoming a capable individual.

Camp Nawakwa is accredited by the American Camping Association and meets the rigid requirements of their 12-page check list. In order to qualify ACA accredited camps must be visited by a trained, qualified visitor, representing the geographical section of the ACA.

A camp staff of thirty college - age counsellors plus kitchen, maintenance and nursing staff is employed to give the campers more than just a vacation.

Nine sessions will be offered throughout the summer, closing on September 3. Two special sessions in aquatics are being offered from June 29 through July 6 and also on August 27 through September 3.

Registrations are being accepted at the council Office, 2288 N. Towne Ave., Pomona or at the Covina Service Center, 555 S. Barranca. Brochures will be mailed on request.

$1 charge extra camp vehicles

SACRAMENTO -- The State Department of Parks and Recreation announced today that a $1 charge per night is now in effect for each extra motor vehicle brought in by a visitor for the use in a state park campground entrance station.

Under this system, a camper at a Class A campground, for example, using a second car or a motor scooter would pay the regular $3 campsite fee plus an additional $1 for the second vehicle.

The action is necessary, the department explained, because of the increasing use of recreational vehicles such as dune buggies, motor scooters, trail bikes, and four wheel drive vehicles. This has increased the problems of enforcement and maintenance in state parks.

The extra charge for additional vehicles will allow the parks to exercise better control over their use, and will help to insure that the users of these vehicles pay a more equitable share of the cost of maintaining park roads and recreation areas.

ITEM: Thin fibers of stainless steel blended with textile fibers may eventually be used in heat conductive carpets, curtains and draperies.
